CHAPTER XXVI CONCLUSION WHEN the Black Growler slowly moved forward to take her position in the line, the excited boys were aware that the shores of the nearby islands were filled with interested spectators. Outside the limits of the race there were scores of yachts and motor-boats, whose owners with their guests had assembled to watch the exciting contest. Patrol boats were noisily demanding that the line should be kept clear and were busily speeding back and forth to see that their demands were strictly enforced. Before the boys had left Chestnut Island, Miss Susie Stevens and her friend had arrived, the impulsive girl begging that she might be permitted to be one of the company on board the Black Growler during the race. Her request, however, was denied. Only the four Go Ahead boys and Sam were to be on board to manage the swift little craft. When the boys advanced toward the starting place, they discovered, after lots had been drawn for positions, that they were next to the Varmint II, the latter boat having drawn number four, while its chief rival was fifth in the line. Those fellows aren't so bad, after all, said George good-naturedly to his companions when he saw the five men that were on board the rival boat. There we were suspecting them of all sorts of tricks and yet nothing happened to the Black Growler. We had our troubles for our pains. Huh! interrupted...
