Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Baptist Library, Vol. 1: A Republication of Standard Baptist Works The entire expulsion of Hagar, the bond-woman, would not have been so cruel, or so disastrous a measure to the household of faith, as was that of exalting her to occupy the place of Sarah, the free-woman: for this was the wrong which the Church endured, when Science was thrust into the place that rightfully belonged to Piety, and the hand-maid supplanted the mistress. Still another impediment to our literary progress has been found in the bitter obloquy, and the unjust prejudices which some eminent names in literature have delighted to heap on all zealous and simple believers. They who have known the truth, have disliked the worldly literature that mocked and caricatured it: while they who received blindly the literature, have despised the Gospel which that literature maligned and travestied. He who should form his opinion, for instance, of English Christians from the histories of Hume or of Smollett, would be egregiously deceived with regard to their true opinions, their practices, the purity of their morals, and the real nature and extent of their influence upon society. He, on the other hand, who knows the real worth of the Reformers, the Puritans, and the Methodists, cannot but feel indignation against the historians that have so foully wronged the motives and the actions of these classes of Christians. It has been the ancient fable well exemplified, The man and not the lion has been the painter. While many of the devoted servants of God were laboring meekly, steadily, and most successfully, in the cause of Christ and of mankind, the popular literature of the...
