The early 1960s saw the establishment of a firm foundation for our Nation's oceanographic research programs. Building on this research base in the late 60s and early 70s, we began formulating policies and carrying out plans to derive practical benefits from our ocean activities. New marine-related institutions were developed, the importance of marine sciences to the activities of existing institutions was recognized, and their efforts were expanded. While recognizing the ongoing importance of basic research, I believe that this emphasis on practical benefits must also be carried forward in the years ahead. Ocean Industries We have been particularly concerned of late with the challenge of relieving our dependence on marine imports and at the same time, providing new products and services for export....
